- Names
- Contact Details
- Employer
- Job Title

Lawful bases and data protection rights

Under UK data protection law, we must have a "lawful basis" for collecting and using your personal information. There is a list of possible lawful bases in the UK GDPR. You can find out more about lawful bases on the ICO's website.

Which lawful basis we rely on may affect your data protection rights which are set out in brief below. You can find out more about your data protection rights and the exemptions which may apply on the ICO's website:

- Your right of access - You have the right to ask us for copies of your personal information. You can request other information such as details about where we get personal information from and who we share personal information with. There are some exemptions which means you may not receive all the information you ask for. Read more about the right of access.
- Your right to rectification - You have the right to ask us to correct or delete personal information you think is inaccurate or incomplete. Read more about the right to rectification.
- Your right to erasure - You have the right to ask us to delete your personal information. Read more about the right to erasure.
- Your right to restriction of processing - You have the right to ask us to limit how we can use your personal information. Read more about the right to restriction of processing.
- Your right to object to processing - You have the right to object to the processing of your personal data. Read more about the right to object to processing.
- Your right to data portability - You have the right to ask that we transfer the personal information you gave us to another organisation, or to you. Read more about the right to data portability.
- Your right to withdraw consent – When we use consent as our lawful basis you have the right to withdraw your consent at any time. Read more about the right to withdraw consent.

If you make a request, we must respond to you without undue delay and in any event within one month. To make a data protection rights request, please contact us using the contact details at the top of this privacy notice.

Our lawful bases for the collection and use of your data

Our lawful basis for collecting or using personal information to provide services and goods are:

- Legitimate interests – we're collecting or using your information because it benefits you, our organisation or someone else, without causing an undue risk of harm to anyone. All your data protection rights may apply, except the right to portability.
- Consent – we are collecting or using your information because you have contacted us directly.

Our legitimate interests are to make contact and engage with potential partners, consumers, investors or other industry stakeholders who we believe may benefit from our technology innovations and products.

For more information on our use of legitimate interests as a lawful basis, you can contact us using the contact details set out above.

Where we get personal information from

We only obtain personal information from the following sources:

- Directly from you
- Publicly available sources

How long we keep information

We will store your personal information for a maximum of 36 months following the last date of contact.

For any contact information that remains unused or dormant following that period will be actively removed from our database.

For more information on how long we store your personal information or the criteria we use to determine this please contact us using the details provided above.

How to complain

If you have any concerns about our use of your personal information, you can make a data protection complaint to us at the following:

Email: hello@nuanced.bio

If you remain unhappy with how we've used your data after raising a complaint with us, you can also complain to the ICO.
